

Antiquing, Farmer's Market and Lunch in Rural Northwest RI

The northwestern corner of the state is dotted with the homes and farms of the 18th and 19th centuries, and dwellings of earlier times. Our local antique shops are the beneficiaries of our history.

BURRILLVILLE:

Stillwater Mill Center, Harrisville, RI – After a beautiful ride up Douglas Turnpike, venture into the village of Harrisville and visit the Stillwater Mill Center

Grab fresh produce, jams, and or home baked pies at the Farmer's Market

Walk just a few feet from the Farmer's Market to RE:discover; a store that reuses, recycles and repurposes a myriad of antique and modern materials into various decorative and creative pieces.

Village Barn Country Store & Antiques - Proceed just a mile down the road to Mapleville to the Village Barn Country Store & Antiques.

LUNCH

Abbey's Country Kitchen, Pascoag, RI

CHEPACHET

Visit five antique shops all clustered together in the center of town:

The Town Trader: www.thetowntrader.com;

Brown & Hopkins Country Store: www.brownandhopkins.com;

Stone Mill Antiques;

Chestnut Hill Antiques;
